★ MURDER AT THE DEADWOOD CANTINA ★

Holly Hickok

A Southern belle with a flair for poker, wowing the West.

How to Play It

Outgoing, spontaneous and charming, with a thick Southern drawl. Sweet-talk your way into getting what you want.

Starter Lines

1. Why, Mitch, sugar, you know I just LET you win. Surely a little of that purse belongs to me?
2. Cheat? Me? Heavens no! It's against my morals, darlin'.
3. Call me a sidewinder, will ya? Well, you're nothin' but a low-down polecat!

Be Ready If Asked

"You're a sidewinder!" → Fire right back: "Well, you're nothin' but a low-down polecat!"

"Did you cheat in the tournament?" → "Cheat? Me? Never! It's against my morals, darlin'."

"Where are you from? I can't place your accent." → "Why, down South, sugar. Where else?" Then change the subject.

When to use these: After Harry's welcome, go find the person each line mentions (or anyone nearby) and work all three into conversation before the lights go out. Tell the host quietly when you're done. After the murder, follow your B envelope.

OBJECTIVES

Holly Hickok

Starting Objectives:

- Playfully suggest to Mitch Maverick (the winner of the tournament) that you "let" him win. See if Mitch will give you any of his earnings.
- Make conversation with Gambling Jack (a card player). Your attention to Jack will make Anna Belle (Jack's backer) mad and Mitch Maverick jealous.
- Remind Mitch Maverick that you always get your way.
- If accused of cheating, insist that you would never cheat. It is against your morals!
- If anyone calls you a "show-off" tonight, retaliate by calling them a "card shark".
- Find out about Sally Starr's (a cantina girl) dislike for Minnie Money (the debutante). Admit you have the same dislike and plot together against Minnie.

Night of Mystery

Holly Hickok

As an independent woman in the West, you possess many capabilities, the best of those being the ability to manipulate anyone to get what you want. Often your tactics to achieve this fall nothing short of lying, bribery, blackmail and the like. Of course, you keep these abilities all hidden beneath a beautiful and fancy exterior. Although you are in the West, where most of the women are perceived as hard and rough, you keep yourself well groomed with fancy petticoats and beautiful garments. In your travels, you have realized that Southerners gain more advantages, so you have adopted a southern accent which comes in handy when you want to get your way.

After your mother abandoned you at a young age, your father to raised you with all of his poker-playing buddies. You could say your knack for manipulating men started quite young because by age 10 you had your daddy and his friends eating out of your hand. At the age of 18, you left home to explore the world!

Since leaving home, you have relied mostly on your poker playing abilities to fund your lifestyle. When you feel like your luck is a bit down, you borrow and steal from the people you meet on your travels to make ends meet. While this lifestyle is one that would shock many, you love it!

When you heard about the Deadwood Poker Tournament, you decided to enter and test your skill. Although you are not known as one of the top poker players, your looks and charm often provide you with an advantage. During your week here in Deadwood, you have been very friendly with most of the players in order to gain knowledge. Despite the innocence of your sweet-talk, you may have stepped over the line when you talked to Gambling Jack (another card player). After Anna Belle (Gambling Jack's backer) noticed you conversing with Jack, she began glaring at you and you are certain that Anna Belle is one who desires revenge.

Last night in another attempt to gain an advantage in the tournament, you had dinner with Mitch Maverick to earn his trust, talk strategy and to hopefully use that information to throw off his game today. Evidently, your ploy did not work because Mitch beat you in the final round of the tournament, becoming the grand champion. Because you now have a bond with Mitch, you are still hoping that you can convince him with your charming ways to spend some of the winnings on you.

While your dinner with Mitch did not win you an advantage at the poker table, it may have won you an enemy in Minnie Money (a debutante) who witnessed you dining with Mitch. Apparently, Mitch and Minnie had a short-lived friendship while in Deadwood that came to an end abruptly before your dinner. While you are not to blame for the break-up, apparently Minnie does not see it that way and you fear that Minnie will act out and cause a scene.

Despite losing in the tournament, you are still excited to be attending the Deadwood Poker Tournament Party. At the party, you plan to celebrate the week and the friends you have made, as well as see what kind of profit you can turn now that you have lost the tournament.

Acting and Dressing Your Part: An independent and vivacious woman who knows her way around the wild west and the poker tables, you will be outgoing and spontaneous at the party. Although you are not from the South, you claim to be and thus, try to speak with a southern accent. For the party you plan to dress to impress with a fancy dress, stockings, and a feather boa. *For more ideas on how to dress and a glossary of wild western words and phrases to use at the party, please see please see the party tips section at www.nightofmystery.com.
